The Benefits of Bundling through SIRVA

Relocation, Moving, and Commercial Services

The Benefits of Bundling through SIRVA

For over 50 years, SIRVA has been dedicated to simplifying relocation and moving through the integration of these two complex services. The benefits of partnership for our clients have been significant, from cost savings and quality control to the reduction of administrative soft costs and resources that internal teams can redirect toward company priorities. We are pleased to inform our clients that we are also able to take that integration and single-source delivery even further with SIRVA Commercial, a core service within our portfolio. Seamlessly integrated with our other product lines, SIRVA Commercial expands on our mission to streamline all aspects of company workplace and workforce mobility and expansion for our clients.

What is SIRVA Commercial?

SIRVA Commercial offers services in workplace, office & facility moving, retail refurbishing, and a number of miscellaneous services, from design and planning to voice/data connectivity. Whether you're moving your workplace across town or across the globe, SIRVA Commercial is uniquely positioned to manage the project, reduce office disruptions, and get you back up and running with complete efficiency – faster. Meeting needs piecemeal, through several different companies, is complicated and often results in the loss of control and transparency, which can negatively impact outcomes for both your company and its employees. As the industry's only direct-delivery, integrated relocation and moving services provider, SIRVA provides greater flexibility and consistency. Our worldwide networks offer you priority capacity, logistics expertise, and significant pricing advantages from our experienced and well-known brands. All of this reduces stress and keeps your workforce and workplace programs in the top tier of quality.

Why bundle services with SIRVA?

As the industry's only globally-integrated relocation and moving services provider, we're uniquely positioned to maximize efficiency, increase our clients' return on investment (ROI), and improve the overall experience and success of both our clients and their employees.

A Single Point of Accountability

Relocating and moving are complex processes, in which each milestone is dependent on the successful implementation of the milestones that come before. When companies are managing multiple vendors, each with their own timelines and prioritization, they run the risk of being unable to troubleshoot before problems occur because those problems don't generally present themselves until they have significantly escalated. Inexperience regarding the many steps involved with relocation and moving – and any nuances specific to a particular region – can also strain valuable time and resources.

By bundling with SIRVA, clients benefit from working with one company that has direct access to all aspects of workforce and workplace mobility. Each of our teams proactively troubleshoot as deadlines approach, coordinate expected deliverables and provide transparency to stakeholders and impacted employees. Operations are simplified, supply chain networks are employed to increase efficiency, and stress is minimized. All of this is accomplished with one company, one contract, and one point of accountability.

Cost Efficiency

With over 90 years of relocation and moving experience, SIRVA experts have a wealth of knowledge and expertise on relocation matters, including global destination and settling in services to home disposition/acquisition, household goods and office moving, and commercial warehousing in every region around the world. In-house management of workforce and workplace mobility can be inefficient due to a lack of resources that a company can commit to these activities – particularly when there is a need for research and troubleshooting. Bundling with SIRVA provides our clients with cost savings through proactive control of challenges before they happen, rather than reactive management of problems after they occur. Our expansive global networks take cost reduction a step further, as they translate into greater scalability and flexibility when it comes to bundled pricing strategies in all areas: relocation, moving and commercial services. Because of our single-source management and our network integration, we have insight and control of costs from end to end. In short, our global expertise combined with our in-house, global network translates to significant savings for our clients.

Superior Quality

SIRVA's ability to monitor all aspects of a company's global workplace and workforce mobility initiatives provides us with 360-degree visibility into each relocation or move. Our client dashboards provide customers with the ability to monitor key aspects of every relocation, from employee milestones to expenses. When it comes to commercial services, account managers can monitor the status of and manage service ratings for every member of a facilities team, down to individual members, in real time. SIRVA's integrated single-source model allows client and employee questions to be addressed quickly, saving time and keeping processes on schedule. Additionally, all SIRVA divisions and employees are held to the same standards of quality, from service delivery to information security.

Additional Benefits:

- Guaranteed Priority Service: Our portfolio of owned Brands (SIRVA; Allied; northAmerican; Team Relocations; Allied Pickfords; Allied International; northAmerican International; Global Van Lines; JDC International; Alliance Relocation Services, Inc.; & SMARTBOX) in 177 countries means we are fully aware of where our resources are at all times, globally. This allows us to prioritize and manage those resources with superior control, matching the right provider to each client, based on unique needs and geographic locations even during the busiest times of year.
- Consolidated Reporting: Clients have access to multiple reporting levels across all services that can be consolidated into one, convenient document.
- Superior Technology: SIRVA's commitment to innovative technology provides our clients with unparalleled benefits throughout their workplace and workforce relocation and moving processes. Whether monitoring up-to-date employee relocation statuses and lump sum payouts via our iMOVE mobile app platform or receiving reporting regarding commercial moves in real time via our patent pending technology (CommercialConnect™) – both from any mobile device, at any time – SIRVA has revolutionized the way companies are handling their workforce and workplace mobility.

Bundling through SIRVA simplifies managerial processes for workplace and workforce mobility, creating more efficient and cost-effective solutions. If your company requires any combination of our services, we encourage you to contact us at bundle@sirva.com for more information on how bundling with SIRVA can benefit your company goals in the areas of relocation, moving and commercial moving.
